“As I write, I am on the brink of major life changes, some prayed for, a few drastic and unwelcome. I find myself stumbling, fearful, uncertain of these new snaking roads and unsure of God’s place in it all. Then I feel guilty. Where is my faith? Why am I not “counting it with all joy” and skipping confidently into the sunny future?”

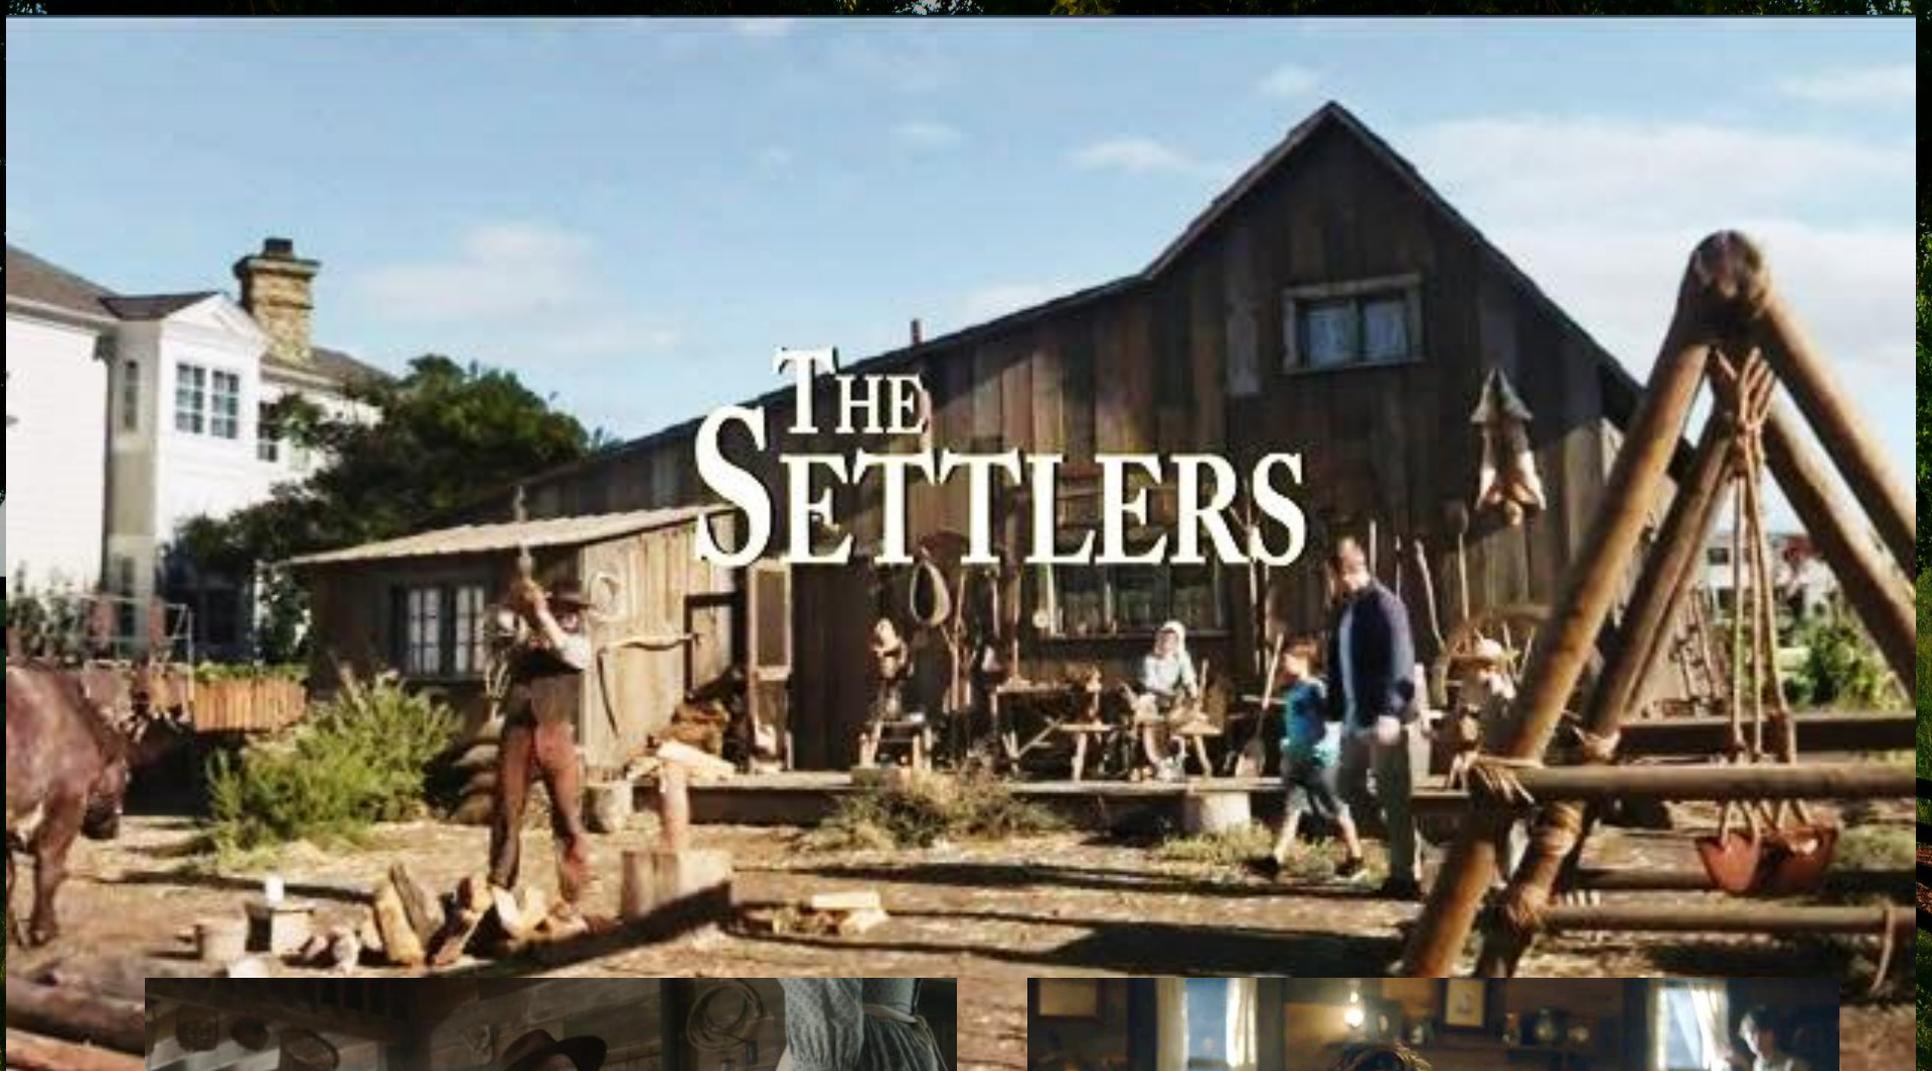

- Leslie Leylan Fields

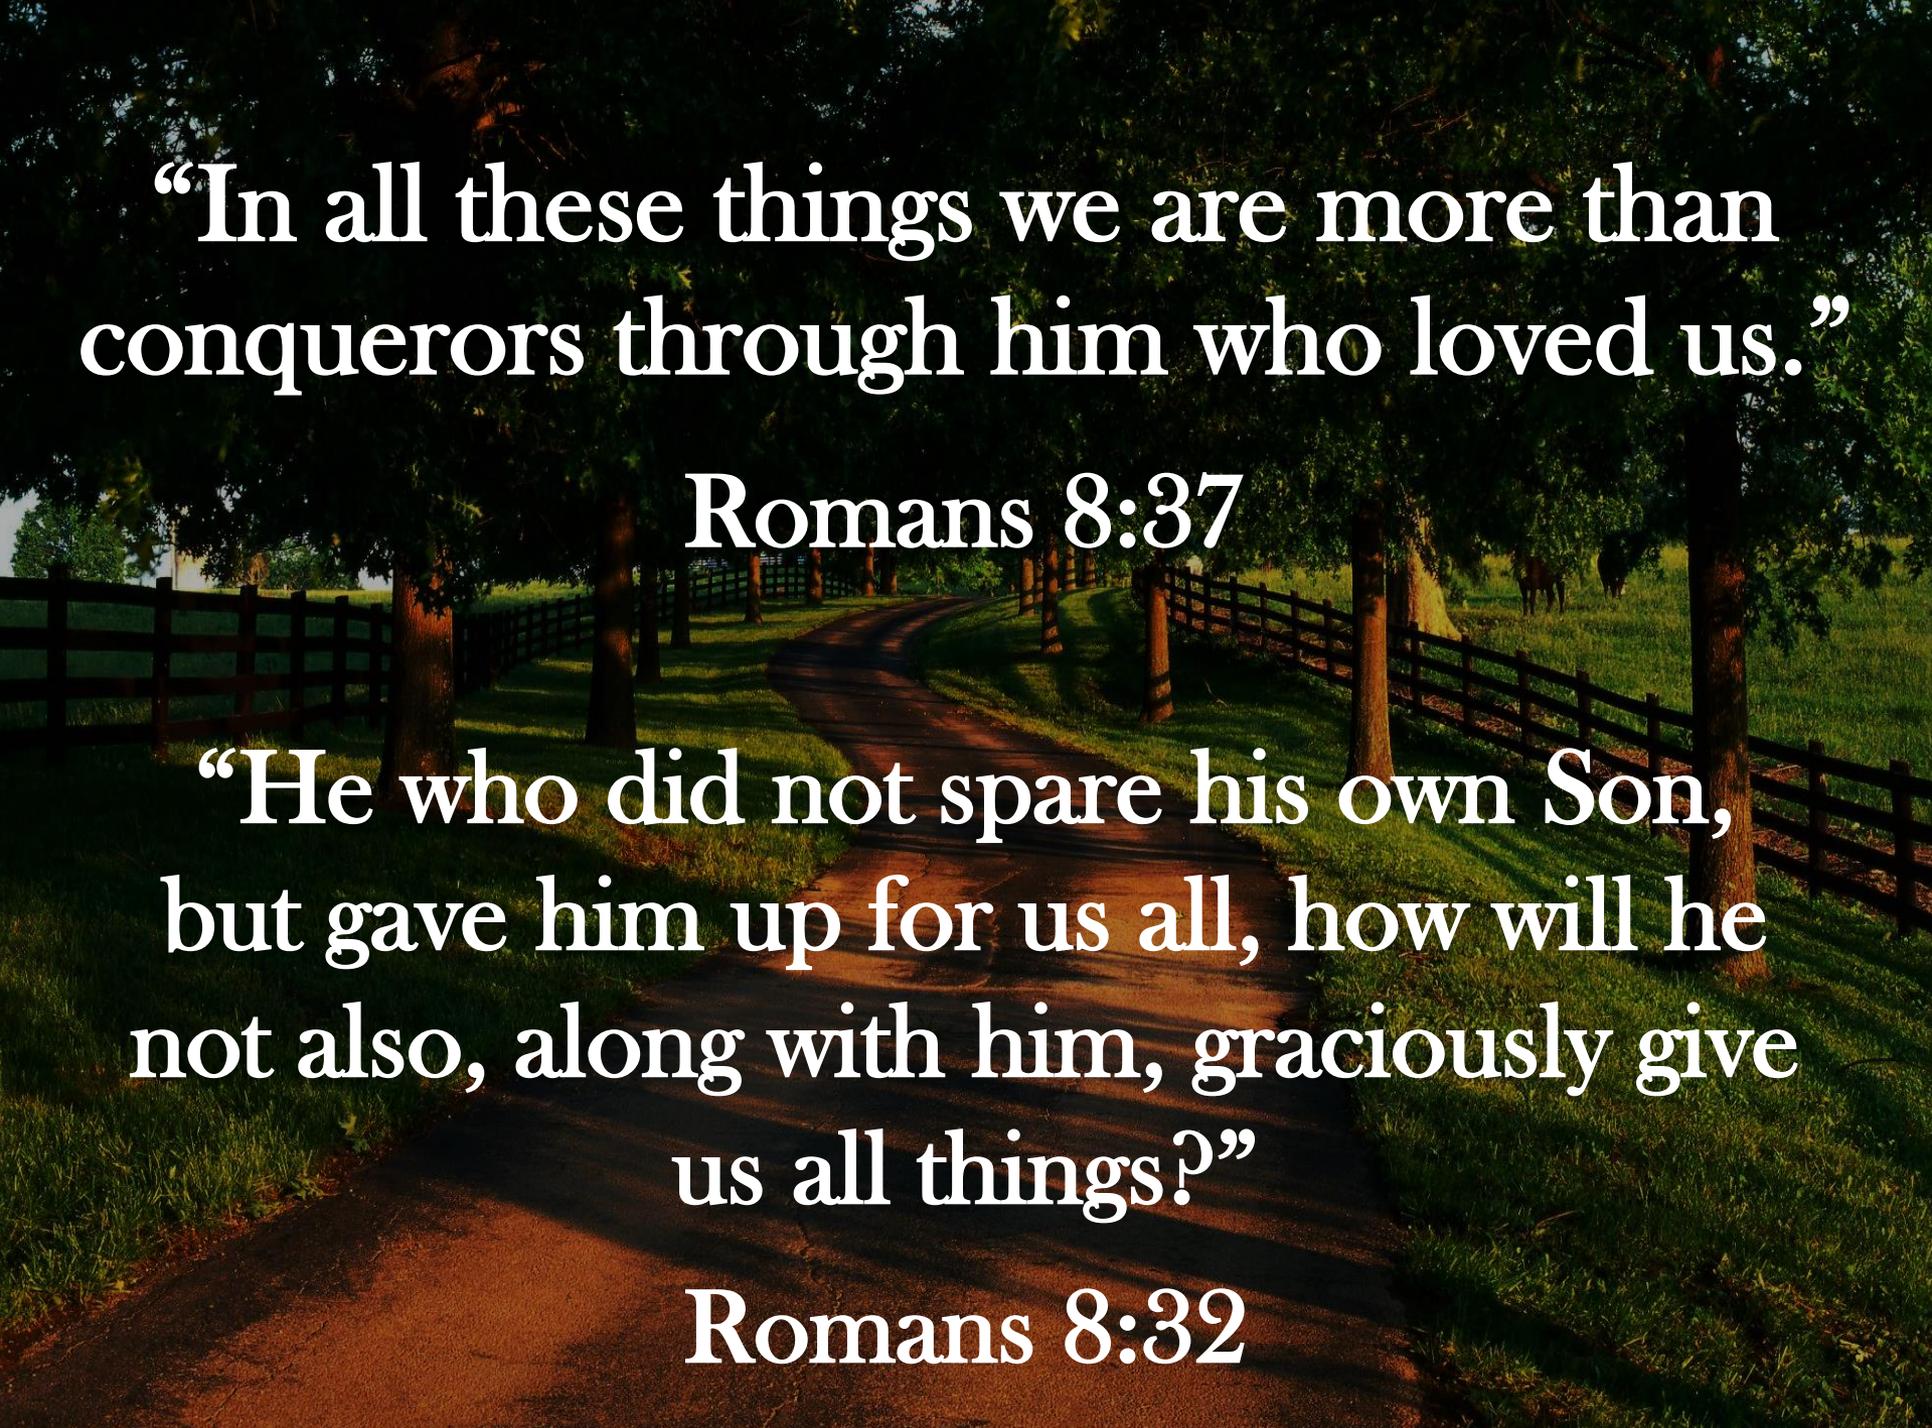

A scenic view of a dirt path winding through a green field with trees and a wooden fence. The path is the central focus, leading the eye from the foreground into the distance. The field is lush and green, with several trees scattered along the path. A dark wooden fence runs parallel to the path on both sides. The lighting suggests a late afternoon or early morning setting, with long shadows cast across the path.

“We know that the whole creation has been groaning.” - v. 22

“What, then, shall we say in response to these things? If God is for us, who can be against us.” - v. 31

God is there to help us in our wanderings and wonderings, but we must be careful where we set up camp and where we settle

A dirt path lined with trees and a wooden fence, leading into a green field. The path is the central focus, curving slightly to the right. The trees are lush green, and the fence is made of dark wood. In the background, a few horses are visible in a grassy field.

“In all these things we are more than conquerors through him who loved us.”

Romans 8:37

“He who did not spare his own Son, but gave him up for us all, how will he not also, along with him, graciously give us all things?”

Romans 8:32

A dirt path winds through a lush green field, flanked by a dark wooden fence and several large, leafy trees. The scene is bathed in the warm, golden light of late afternoon or early morning, with long shadows cast across the path. In the distance, a few horses are visible grazing in the field.

“Not all those who wander are lost.”

- J.R.R. Tolkien

God is for you, not against you!
We are more than conquerors
through Jesus who loves us.

A dirt path leads through a lush green field, flanked by a wooden fence and tall trees. The scene is bathed in soft, golden light, suggesting late afternoon or early morning. The path curves gently into the distance, inviting a sense of journey and exploration.

Hamba nathi (Come, walk with us)

“Come walk with us, the journey is long, Share our burden, and join in the song, come, uplift us and bring us new life, and give us peace when the journey is done.”

“For I am convinced that neither death nor life, neither angels nor demons, neither the present nor the future, nor any powers, neither height nor depth, nor anything else in all creation, will be able to separate us from the love of God that is in Christ Jesus our Lord.”

Romans 8:38-39
